

The Effect of Emotional Support towards Quality of Work Life on Balinese Working Women

Authors : I. Ketut Yoga Adityawira, Putu Ayu Novia Viorica, Komang Rahayu Indrawati

Abstract : In addition to work and take care of the family, Balinese women also have a role to participate in social activities in Bali. So this will have an impact on the quality of work life of Balinese women. One way to reduce the impact of the fulfillment of the role of Balinese women namely through emotional support. The aim of this research is to find out the effect of emotional support towards the quality of work life on Balinese working women. Data were retrieved by quasi-experimental method with pretest-posttest design. Data were analyzed by Analysis of Variance (ANOVA) through SPSS 17.0 for Windows. The number of subjects in this research is 30 people with the criteria: Balinese Women, aged 27 to 55 years old, have a minimum of two years experience of work and has been married. The analysis showed that there is no effect of emotional support towards the quality of work life on Balinese working women, with information there is no significant of probability value $p = 0.304$ ($p > 0.05$).

Keywords : Balinese women, emotional support, quality of work life, working women

Conference Title : ICPPW 2018 : International Conference on Positive Psychology and Wellbeing

Conference Location : London, United Kingdom

Conference Dates : June 28-29, 2018